

What is rental debt guarantee?

Japanese Original Rental Reassurance System

In Japan, when you rent it may be difficult to prove your creditworthiness. Therefore, in order to assure creditworthiness for residents and applicants, the rental debt guarantee company can run a tenant and financial reliability screening to serve as proof and thus reduce risk to the owner and the real estate agency. As a result, it becomes easier for the borrower by using a rent and a rental debt guarantee company such as J-Lease.

Originally in Japan it was normal to sign a lease agreement using a family member or friend as your guarantor. However, as time passed circumstances such as a low birth rate and an aging population have given birth to the rental debt guarantee company business. Whether Japanese or a foreign national, many people are using our services today. The guarantor company conducts a proper tenant screening before move-in and in the case of late rental payment, steps in to pay the owner on behalf of the tenant, working out to the benefit of both the tenant and owner.

In addition to the monthly rent, J-Lease's guarantee service also covers settlement expenses incurred at the time of moving-out, early cancellation penalty fees, renewal fees from contract renewal, among others.

J-Lease Rental Debt Guarantee

Our product is "Trust".

J-Lease is listed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange, and not only observes compliance, but also develops various services centered on guaranteeing rental debt services that are widely used by real estate companies in Japan.

J-Lease charges a fee to reduce risk and serve as the financially liable party on your behalf from the point of tenant screening until you move out. Basically, upon completion of the contract, this fee is not returned.
